NOT GUILTY WAS VERDICT

Trigg County Jury Dismisses Charges Against Alleged Night Riders.

ONE FOR CONVICTION.

Grand Jury at a Loss to Secure Testimony Against Soldiers.

Cadiz, Ky., Sept. 16.—After being out about four hours, the jury in the case of the Commonwealth against the nine "night riders" charged with whipping Dave Cossey, near Golden Pond, twelve miles west of here, last March, returned a verdict yesterday afternoon of not guilty.
There was one juror favoring conviction, and he finally came to the other eleven.

The following report was made to the court by the Trigg county grand jury, which adjourned yesterday afternoon.

"To the Judge of the Trigg Circuit Court: The grand jury of Trigg county desires to thank the court for courtesies extended. We have made a close examination of all the matters brought to our observation, with the exception of offenses committed by the military in Trigg county. In this regard we were at a loss to secure testimony, and were unable to return indictments. We found the civil officers had been vigilant, and all the offenses growing out of the troubles affecting not only this section, but the entire State, had been promptly looked after. We are glad to note that peace exists in our county, and we hope it will continue.

In regard to the specific act committed by soldiers at Wallonia Masonic lodge, we thought that at present it was useless to present any charge, but that the matter can still be investigated by future grand juries, when conditions are changed and witnesses can be secured. We visited the jail and found it in very good condition.

L. J. HUTCHERSON, Foreman.

COURT IN TRIGG.

Grand Jury Returns But Few Indictments.

The following items are from the Cadiz Record:
Jim Bruce and Jim Hastings, indicted for shooting Walter Goodwin at Center Furnace in July, have their trial set for next Monday.

The men whom Walter Goodwin accused of being night riders at Center Furnace last spring, and who were held over from the last grand jury were dismissed, the grand jury deciding the evidence not sufficient to indict. The same was true with Jack Aldridge, whom Walter Goodwin charged jointly with Jim Bruce and Jim Hastings with shooting him in July.

The grand jury returned 17 indictments, none of much importance except two for murder.

WALLER & ROGERS

To Move to Summers Building Oct. 15.

Waller & Rogers, the furniture dealers and undertakers, have leased the Summers building, next to the court house, for a term of years, and expect to move to their new quarters on Oct. 15. The building will be thoroughly renovated, repapered, repainted and fitted up for a modern and up-to-date furniture house. From now until the date of their removal, the firm offer to the public their entire stock of furniture, rugs, etc., for one half the usual price. They extend a cordial invitation to all to call and see them, promising to divide their profit with the purchaser. See their ad, which appears in today's Kentuckian.

PHINNEY'S BAND WILL BE HERE

With the Finest Musical Attraction Ever Brought to the City.

SIX GREAT SINGERS.

Will Appear at Tabernacle
Under Auspices of W.
O. W. Lodge.

"Philadelphia," a new musical historical drama, is creating a sensation in the East. It will be when presented one of the most spectacular affairs ever attempted.

The full program of the pageantry, the various tableaux and the numerous scenes to show the development of Philadelphia from the time of the early Dutch settlement was mapped out and orders given for the making of the many characters.
Frederick Phinney and his assistants have been at work for nearly four months preparing the music for the different chapters. For the musical end of the program there will be one band of one hundred pieces and two other bands which will participate in the various scenes on the field.

PLAN OF THE PRODUCTION.

This open-air production—the first of its kind ever presented in any American city—will be divided into several features. The first will portray the Delaware Indians as they were in primitive days. Subsequently will enter the Swedes, who unsuccessfully barter with the redmen for the lands between Delaware and the Schuylkill rivers. Then will follow the arrival of William Penn and his followers, and an elaborate staging will show the famous treaty em-council in the same year that Philadelphia was laid out as a city.

From that point, the drama will proceed to the colonial period, showing the city as it was at the time of the outbreak of the Revolution. This chapter will introduce many of the famous characters of those days, show the town life the student life at the University of Pennsylvania, Washington's presence in the city on the way to take command of the Continental army at Cambridge, July 2, 1775, the arrival of the British soldiers in Philadelphia, and will close with a magnificent ensemble based on the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

The United States subsequent to the Civil War will be another phase of the production, and will show military features which will recall the exciting days of that period.
Again, in the concluding chapter will the military be seen in a representation of one of the battles of the Spanish-American War, in which a number of the Philadelphia soldiers will take part.

The historical tableau will be superbly costumed.

Mr. Frederick Phinney, who has charge of the music in this production, has contracted to bring his famous U. S. Band, with from 4 to 6 singers, to this city and give a performance under the auspices of the W.O.W. Lodge Oct. 15. This will be the greatest musical attraction ever brought to Hopkinsville.

MANNINGTON MAN
Enlisted For Service With Uncle Sam.

Princeton, Ky., Sept. 18.—
Mr. Caliph Shanklin, of Mannington, Ky., joined the U. S. army at Princeton, Ky., Sept. 15th. He enlisted for the infantry branch of service and passed on excellent physical examination. He was sent immediately to Jefferson Barracks, Mo., for his preliminary training as a soldier before joining the organization for which he enlisted. He is to be congratulated on choosing and receiving

HEAVY DOCKET FOR TERM

More Than 500 Cases For Fall Session Of Circuit Court.

SIX WEEKS' TERM.

Damage Suits, Two Murder Cases And Others Of Importance.

Yesterday was the last day for filing suits for the fall term of Circuit Court which begins a six weeks session Monday, Sept. 28, and up to noon the docket showed something over 500 cases. They are as follows: appearances, common law, 70; appearances, Equity, 43; continued, common law, 66; continued, Equity, 176; commonwealth, 159.
There are fifteen prisoners confined in the county jail. The case of Joe Harris, col., under indictment for willful murder, is set for fourth day of the term. The case of W. P.
Winfree, Jr., is set for the sixth day of the term. Gano Warder, charged with confederating, etc., is set for the fifth day, and the case of J.
M. Weaver, under indictment for confederating and banding together with others to destroy property, comes up on the third day of the term. Harris is in jail and the other defendants are out on bond.

Several damage suits have been filed since our last report. Mrs. F.
C. Hollis sues the town of Pembroke for $2,000 damages and Mrs. Hollis and her husband, W. Hollis, also sue the town for $1,500. In the first plaintiff states the town permitted a sewer to stop up and that the overflow caused by same flooded her property, drowning her corn and vegetables in the garden. Plaintiffs in the second suit state that they owned several lots in Jameson's addition, and that College street was raised in front of their property which caused it to overflow and that the sewer was so badly constructed that the water was not carried off.

Cherry Brothers, of near Beverly, have filed suit against Christian county for damages aggregating $1,750.
They allege that they contracted with the commissioners appointed by the fiscal court to furnish a rock quarry on their premises from which stone was to be secured for piking purposes, and that the employees carelessly used dynamite in blasting and ruined a fine spring. Plaintiffs further claim that wagons were driven across their growing crops, that defendant failed to put in a force pump, etc., and that they have been damaged in the above sum, as a consequence.

W. E. Browning prays for $500 damages from J. B. Holman. He states in his petition that he contracted with the defendant for the use of a rock crusher with which to prepare stone for the Pembroke and Fairview pike, but that defendant removed his machine before the work had been completed.

SERIOUS CHARGE

Against Pembroke Negro In Jail Here.

Lewis Burnett, col., was arrested at Pembroke and brought here and lodged in jail. The negro is accused of raising a $6 check to $26. His examining trial was set for Sept. 22.
The trial will be held before a special judge, as Judge Prowse will be out of the city on the above date.
Bond was fixed at $200, but up to yesterday, had not been furnished.

FIVE ARRESTS AS THE RESULT OF CONFESSIONS

Given at Clarksville in the Trial of Gardner and Hunt.

WITH BENNETT BOYS.

On Fatal Night, Wearing Masks and Badges—State Rests Its Case.

Clarksville, Tenn., Sept. 18.—As a result of their evidence given in the Hunt-Gardner trial here Thursday, five of the State's witnesses have been placed under arrest and are out now under $10,000 bond each, charged with night riding.

John Sadler, Elbert Albright, Oscar Albright, Charles Hogan and James Chamblis, who testified that they were the companions of the Bennett boys on the night of the killing, were arrested as soon as the last of them had testified, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, by Sheriff

Playbills and Sentiment.

By Carl Williams.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

The janitor's little girl murmured a word of thanks for the penny bestowed upon her and scampered back downstairs, while Elizabeth returned to the parlor with the mail which the child had just brought.

It was a comfortable little city apartment, and only the typewriter table in one corner betrayed the fact that it was a work as well as a play room. Through an arch an abnormally small dining room with the table laid for one proclaimed it to be the home of a bachelor girl, though Elizabeth Bennett's dainty femininity gave no suggestion of spinsterhood either from choice or circumstance.

The coffee percolator steamed on the table unheeded while she ran through her letters—a check for a story, two manuscripts, a paper and a thin, flat package bearing a foreign stamp.

Elizabeth frowned over one letter, smiled over another, pored the check lovingly as she thrust it into the drawer of her tiny desk and ripped the cover from the package. Out fell a playbill, a glaring title of red and blue letters on white paper, bearing the list of artists appearing at a Roman music hall.

One of the names was marked with an ink cross, and in defiance of postal regulations Neil Stanwood had written on the margin: "Do you remember we saw her at the theater the night before I sailed? It's a small matter, after all."

Elizabeth smiled at the remembrance. Four other girls and herself had given Neil a going away party the night before he sailed, and he had studied in Italy. They had wound up the evening at a vaudeville theater.

"IT IS FROM THE HOME," HE EXPLAINED, where the little dancer of the gliding programme had appeared. Now, Neil in Rome had seen the same act and had remembered the night right together. Was she homesick?

It was several moments before Elizabeth opened the newspaper, the old home paper and "as good as a letter," so Jack Hardy had often declared. Not an item of news worth the telling escaped publication in the Blairsville Beacon, for even with detailed information as to newly painted fences the editor found it difficult to fill his yawning columns.

The Beacon was Hardy's compromise with his conscience. For he had determined to leave Blairsville for the greater opportunities of the city that he could not write. He had not written, but after the first week the Beacon came regularly, addressed in his strong, masculine handwriting, and Elizabeth always smiled a softly triumphant smile whenever the copy arrived.

There had been an "understanding" with Jack Hardy until the stories she loved to write had so frequently found publication as to awaken in Elizabeth an ambition to get in personal touch with the editors.

Hardy had frowned upon the suggestion of removal to New York. He could not leave Blairsville because his own and his mother's incomes were derived from the lumber business which his father had left, and Hardy knew that to go to the city meant beginning all over again the fight for a competence.

There had been heated words over Elizabeth's determination to leave, and she had been given her choice of a career or marriage. She had elected in favor of the career. She had prospered in the great city. She had told herself over and over again that she had done the only sensible thing, and yet—

Today there was an inclosure with the Beacon, a playbill announcing in flamboyant language a week's engagement at the opera house of the Rice & Bennett Empire stock company.

Elizabeth smiled as she read the familiar repertoire. The Rice & Bennett company was almost an institution in Blairsville. Twice a year they played for a week in the town hall, and every one who could read it attended all their performances. It was the one real dramatic treat of the season, for the few other attractions that made Blairsville were traveling vaudeville troupes.

Elizabeth sat down to the typewriter, but presently there came an insistent ring at the hall door. Tony, the rosy faced Italian, who supplied the tenants of the house with ice, displayed two rows of gleaming teeth as he explosively announced "Ice!" Elizabeth held open the door for him while he lifted the cake from the dumb waiter and placed it in her refrigerator.

But the smile faded from Tony's face as he turned to leave. With an articulate cry he sprang at the postcard, fingering it lovingly and scanning every word of the beloved Italian.

"It is from the home," he explained, blushing when the first shock of surprise had passed. "It is to there that I take—a what you call—sweetheart? Ah, to the Salone Margherita, me an' my Marie. Marie she cannot leave da home—da far. I come-a to America to make-a man. It is ver' lonely, signora. Scusa mi."

He shuffled haltingly from the apartment, his joyful face driven by homesickness and thoughts of the distant Marie.

Elizabeth went back to her work. On the door the Rice & Bennett playbill still lay neglected, but now it caught her attention, and she picked it up to read, even as Tony had done with the other, every word of the familiar announcement.

She wondered if Jack would be going. If so, who would be in her place? Mrs. Hardy did not care for the theater, and it was not fair to expect Jack to go alone. She smiled at her jealous thoughts and sat down resolutely before her typewriter, but she found that the thread of the story which had started so well was lost. She could not force her mind to concentrate upon the adventures of an imaginary heroine. Her attention presently wandered to the playbill on the floor.

She could see the opera house without even shutting her eyes. The roller skating crane had somewhat revived its original glories. The common wooden chairs were in place now only when some theatrical performance was given, and the orchestra were "Rules and Regulations" tacked up on the walls with "Beacon Job Print" in large type beneath the phrase, "By order of the management." She could hear the ragged strains of the three piece orchestra, and she knew that Will Taber and Ren Blake would hustle importantly through the stage entrance. They were always the "and others" on the programme, the army in "Under Two Flags" and "A Celebrated Case," the miners in "The Danter," etc. It was all so vivid that she seemed really to be there. With a choking laugh at her new emotions she ripped the story from her typewriter and slipped in a fresh sheet.

John Blake, Blairsville.

Please get seats for all next week. I am coming home tomorrow.

ELIZABETH. Then she gazed about the cozy little flat. It would be very different in Blairsville, and she knew that in sending that message she had virtually assumed her surrender, but she hummed a little tune as she put on her hat and prepared to take the telegram to the office. When she came to the narrow hall she stopped and took down the Italian poster and, with the one from home, placed it in the drawer of her desk.

"You've carried your messages," she whispered to them as she smoothed the folds, "but I want to keep you for remembrance and warning. To Tony and me you mean home. I'm more fortunate than Tony, for I'm going home—to Jack."

Thackeray and the Cabman.

Thackeray loved to relate jokes on himself, and one he especially enjoyed was about a Reading hackman. The author was unacquainted with the town, and the moment he emerged from the railway station he told a hackney coachman to drive him to the nearest hotel. The driver closed the door ceremoniously, mounted his box, and they started. In half a minute the cab was at a standstill, and Thackeray saw the cabman at the door, bowing to him to come out. He did so without a word, for he found that he was at the portico of the station hotel, which he had failed to see was not a dozen yards off.

But he handed the man a shilling and was entering the hotel, rather pleased with his own sang froid, when he was smitten to see the cabman taking off his hat and offering to "fight him for the other sixpence." It appears that on that day a resolution of the Reading town council had come into operation empowering hackney coachmen to charge 18 pence for any distance within the township. This was its first fruit! It is unnecessary to add that the cabman got his money and Thackeray a good story to tell at the clubs.

Her Mean Amusement.

"I love to make visits in the morning."

"Do you?"

"Yes. All the other women are busy with their needlework, so I am free to see them try to get glad to see me."

NIGHTS OF UNREST.

No Sleep, No Rest, No Peace for the Sufferer From Kidney Troubles.

No peace for the kidney sufferer—Pain and distress from morn to night.

Get up with a lame back. Twinge of backache bother you all day.

Dull aching breaks your rest at night. Urinary disorders add to your misery.

Get at the cause—cure the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills will work the cure.

They're for the kidneys only—W. G. Dodd, Farmer, Cadiz, Ky., says: "My kidney trouble was brought on by a fall and I suffered from the complaint for over eight years. There were severe pains in the small of my back and if I attempted to stoop or lift, sharp twinges would start through my body. I could not sleep well at night on account of the aching in my back and during the day was easily tired. My eyesight was blurred, I suffered from dizzy spells and also had headaches. Occasionally my kidneys would become disordered and at such times the secretions would be free in action. For three or four weeks prior to using Doan's Kidney Pills, I had been unable to do any work. After taking a few doses of this remedy I was able to go to work and I am happy to state that I have not lost any time account of kidney troubles since."

Plenty more proof like this from Hopkinstonville people. Call at L. A. Johnson & Co.'s drug store and ask what their customers report.

No Mistaking Him.

"If the oil ever goes to seek the man it'll know him when it meets him," says the Billville Banner, "for he's generally sweeping the landscape with a spyglass, and he locates it ten miles down the road, and saves it the trouble of asking where he lives at."

Work and Happiness.

God intends no man to live in this world without working; but He intends every man to be happy in his work. Now in order that people may be happy in their work, these three things are needed: They must be fit for it, they must not do too much of it, and they must have a sense of success in it.—John Ruskin.

850 HEDGETHORN PUNCTURE-PROOF $4.00
SELF-HEALING TIRES A SAMPLE PAIR TO INTRODUCE, ONLY $4.00

No more trouble from punctures. Nails, tracks or glass will not let the tire out. Sixty thousand pairs sold last year. Over two thousand pairs now in use.

DESCRIPTION: Made of all sizes. It is a special quality of rubber, which never becomes porous and which does not swell or shrink without allowing the tire to escape. We have hundreds of letters from satisfied customers stating that their tires have never been pumped up once or twice in a whole season. They weigh no more than an ordinary tire, the puncture resisting quality being given by several layers of thin, specially prepared fabric on the tread. The regular price of these tires is $5.00 per pair, but for advertising purposes we are making a special factory price to the rider of only $4.00 per pair. All orders must be accompanied by a letter to be received. We ship C. O. D. on approval. You do not pay a cent until you have examined and found them strictly as represented.

We will allow a cash discount of 10 per cent (that is, the price $4.00 per pair) if you send FULL CASH WITH ORDER and enclose this advertisement. We will also send one nickel plated brass hand pump. Tires to be returned at once if for any reason they are not satisfactory on examination. We are perfectly reliable and money sent to us is as safe as in a bank. If you order a pair of tires, you will find that they will be faster, run faster, wear better, last longer and look better than any tire you have ever used or seen at as low a price as this. We want you to send us a trial order at once, hence this remarkable tire offer.

IF YOU NEED TIRES: Hedgethorns Puncture-Proof tires on approval and trial at the special introductory price of $4.00 per pair. Write for our big Tire and Sundry Catalogue which describes and quotes all makes and kinds of tires at about half the usual prices. DO NOT THINK OF BUYING A BICYCLE WITHOUT FIRST TRYING A PAIR OF TIRES. If you are not sure, you can return them at once. We are making. It only costs you a few cents to learn everything. Write NOW.

BLOWS UP HOGS.

Dynamite Intended for Night Riders Goes Off.

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 14.—The dynamite plant which George L. Graddy, a prominent anti-Equity farmer who lives near Versailles, had planted near his tobacco barn to blow up night riders, was accidentally exploded a few days ago and killed seven of Mr. Graddy's hogs. Last spring Mr. Graddy's barn was burned by a party of night riders on account of his having announced that he intended to raise a crop of tobacco in defiance of the Society of Equity ukase. Notwithstanding the destruction of his barn, Mr. Graddy planted a big crop of tobacco and to protect the new barn which he built, Mr. Barnett says that Mr. Graddy planted dynamite mines in the lot surrounding the barn, the mines being connected by wires which were so arranged as to discharge the explosives when they were collided with.

In order to prevent injury to innocent persons Mr. Graddy recently inserted notices in the papers warning all persons against coming on his farm unless accompanied by himself or his foreman. A few days ago Mr. Barnett says a drove of hogs belonging to Mr. Graddy got into the lot and in rooting around struck the buried wires and discharged the dynamite. A tremendous explosion ensued and seven of the hog were blown to pieces. Several others in the drove of hogs were also maimed by the concussion. Mr. Barnett stated that Mr. Graddy grew about seventy acres of tobacco this year. L. H. Johnstone about eighty-five acres and Barnett, himself, about ten acres in Woodford. Barnett said his barn adjoins that of Mr. Johnstone and that both he and Johnstone have already cut a part of their crops, which are good ones.

SMALLEST DOG.

Animal Weighs But Pound and Half and Is Only Five Inches Long.

New York, Sept. 15.—Mlle Atom, smallest of Griffon dogs, which weighs 25 ounces, has been sold for a price generally understood among fanciers to have been $40 an ounce. She is the smallest $100,000 worth of dog ever seen in this country and so far as is known nothing so tiny of that breed has ever been seen in the world. The record for littleness has been held until her advent by a Griffon weighing three pounds. Mlle Atom was purchased by Mrs. John T. Windrim, whose husband is a prominent architect in Philadelphia. The little creature was found in a village near Brussels. Her parents were both prize winners in dog shows in Paris and Brussels. Mlle Atom is five inches long and four inches high. She has long hair, the color of her coat is red, with a darker tint on the back. The eyes are large and very expressive and the face is inclined to roundness.

indorses the nomination of Bryan and Kern, and also the declaration of principles adopted at the Democratic National Convention.

The Democrats of New York Wednesday, in convention at Rochester, nominated a State ticket headed by Lewis Stuyvesant Chandler for Governor. The platform strongly indorses Bryan and Kern and the Democratic national platform and severely criticizes the administration of Gov. Hughes.

The State Fair in its new quarters

The exhibits were creditable in all departments and the attendance has run over 40,000 several days. Under its new management the fair has made good.

Hopkinsville Kentuckian Meacham makes a lot of sport of Max Hanbery's defection from the Republican party, but the Democrats of Trigg county have long since learned that he was a dangerous man to projele with. It is surely not in Meacham's contract that he give aid and comfort to the Republicans.—
Ewing Green News.

Mr. Hanbery's defection is from the Republican party "locally speaking." Nowhere does he say in his card that his quarrel with Gov.
Willson will make him vote against Taft. Recruits who are "pigs at home and pups abroad" are not the kind the Democratic party is looking for.

TWISTS ZEBRA'S TAIL.

Schadel, German Comedian,
Originates New Comedy
Riding Act.

The only man in the world who has ever dared to twist a zebra's tail is Frank Schadel, the German burlesque rider. Schadel has broken and trained a zebra to drive in harness or under the saddle and to do all the tricks of the well-guided manege horse. His act is one of the recently imported novelties of Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Show, which on Thursday, October 1st, will give two performances in Hopkinsville.

Schadel in grotesque make-up does a screamingly funny burlesque riding act. The zebra does the cake-walk, kneels and dances the houchie-kouchie after the manner of the trained mule. It is the only trained zebra in the world.

Other comedy specialties on the varied program are the bar and revolving ladder travesties of the Pro sit Trio and Horton and Linden of Germany and the Livingstons of England, while the hilarious and ridiculous bullfight act of the Toreadores of Spain in what might be called in popular vernacular a "scream." It is the representation of a Spanish bull pit on a fete day with a company of gayly clad toreadores engaged in combat with a bull. A frisky and tricky mule wears the make-up of a bull and the sorry mess he makes of the burlesque gallants would make a wooden Indian laugh.

A half hundred other clowns, bubbling with fun, keep the audience in almost constant laughter. There are clowns from Germany, fools from France, jesters from the Oriental courts, clown pigs, clown dogs and a clown goose. The man who can resist this bunch of madcaps is a subject for the doctor.

Of the 375 performers this year with the circus nearly 300 are Europeans who are making their first tour of this country. Novelty is the keynote of the performance. A new and elaborate spectacle begins the show and the climax is the automobile double somersault in midair performed by Mlle. La Belle Roche. The entire outfit of the show is new this year, the parade having recently been imported from China, France and Germany.

Night riders have appeared in Jones county and three prominent farmers living six miles east of here received notices Monday night to haul no more cotton to gin, or else they would "get paid" as they returned home. A general notice was also placed on the public roads warning all farmers to cease hauling cotton after Sept. 14. Considerable excitement prevailed, and farmers near town are rushing their cotton in

THE FIGURE.

How Too Much Fat May be Safely Reduced at Home.

"Oh, that this too, too solid flesh would melt!" say the ladies nowadays as they try to squeeze into a princess frock. How much would the too generously proportioned dame not give up the four inches lost in the waistline as she compares herself with the more fortunate one hundred and twenty-five pound sister. Various devices are suggested to arrest the flesh producing tendency and keep the figure trim, including exercise, walking and dieting as well as numerous patented remedies, but there are objections to all of these. Exercising is hard work and takes up precious time; dieting is distasteful and a real punishment, and most of the patent remedies are dangerous to health.

The very best thing for the overweight, whether male or female, is a simple home receipt: 14 lbs.
Marmol, 14 oz. Fluid Extract Cassia Annata, 3-12 oz. Peppermint Water, which can be obtained at any drugist at small cost. This should be taken a teaspoonful at a time after meals and at bedtime, and results will be both speedy and certain. This is a harmless mixture that cannot bring on any stomach troubles nor cause the dried-up wrinkled appearance of those who starve or take "patent reducers" to get thin. On the contrary, although it often takes the fat off at the rate of a pound a day, it is really very beneficial to the system, cleansing the blood and causing the complexion to become fair and beautiful.
The cost of the three ingredients is a mere bag-gale, and one, if they prefer, get them separately and mix them together at home.

Fall Opening

The Latest Contribution From the Realm of Fashion Will be Presented

Wednesday Sept. 23.

What the world's cleverest designers have conceived and talented fingers have realized—what work rooms have produced and factories wrought to grace the Autumn Maid and Matron, will be presented to the friends and customers of this store.

It is no light task to forecast the trend of the styles—to summon from the ranks of bidders for Fashion's favor the new things which will be acclaimed—approved and adopted—to separate the good from the indifferent—the pure gold from the dross.
Yet on its ability to do this rests the success of a store

How well we have worked to this end remains for you to say, and we await your verdict with confidence—a confidence justified by the care and pains—the study and effort which this whole organization has expended to lay at your feet the VERY BEST of the NEWEST productions of the LEADING makers of fashions.

The Curtain is lifted—style secrets are out—Autumn is at hand—OUR FALL OPENING occurs Wednesday Sept. 23, and you are invited to attend. 200 Pattern hats, from the cheapest that's correct—up to $65.00, and fifty different styles ladies' tailored suits and coats.

Staton, acting under an order from Judge C. W. Tyler, of the criminal court. According to His Honor's order, the circuit court clerk accepted bond for the appearance of each before the grand jury. Twenty or more farmers of the neighborhood of the accused men's homes, in the eastern part of the county, signed the bonds and they were released immediately.

The arrest of these five young men came at the close of a day of sensations and shortly afterward the State rested in this notable case. The defense will open up at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, and it is rumored here that one of the defendants will take the stand when court convenes.

The testimony offered by the State came as a complete surprise to every one connected with the case. When court opened, after consultation among the attorneys for the prosecution, John Sadler was called. He, as did his companions later, declared that they were with Vaughn and Earl Bennett the night of the shooting.

ALL WORE MASKS.

The seven of them were masked and armed and most of them had the supposed night rider badge pinned on their shoulders. All claimed that this form of dress was adopted at Vaughn Bennett's suggestion, that they were playing like night riders in order to break up a disorderly house near Port Royal. The incidents connected with the killing were detailed, as well as the cutting of the telephone wires in four different localities. None of them had mentioned the fact that they were present until they told H. W. Bennett Monday of this week.

The cross-examination by Mr. Leech was terrific, but the main points of the testimony were unshaken. No adequate reason could be given for the carrying of the shotguns by the various members of the party, nor of their long silence over the incident, nor of their cutting of the telephone wires, except that they just did it all for fun. Did not think it necessary to tell.

The testimony of the five occupied practically the entire day, the State introducing only two more minor witnesses. The Attorney General announced that the State rested at 3:55 o'clock, and the defense asked an adjournment in order that they might run over their long list of witnesses and determine just whom they wanted to introduce. The State rested without having introduced Earl Bennett.

WEDNESDAY'S SESSION.

Judge Tyler made a temporary ruling Wednesday after two hours of argument, from which the jury was excluded, holding that for the present evidence to show that a general night-rider conspiracy exists is incompetent and the last question asked Chief Robinson, by which the argument was precipitated, was ruled out and the witness was not allowed to answer it. However, in stating the ruling, his honor said that he desired more time to think over the question of limiting the investigation, saying that thus far in the progress of the case it had not been shown that a band of night riders was abroad that night nor that Vaughn Bennett was a night rider. In the light of this, he held that the question was neither relevant nor competent at this time.

Later developments may change the court's temporary ruling.

MRS. NOE DEAD.

Passed Away at Sebree After Long Illness.

Mrs. Alice Noe, wife of Mr. A. D. Noe, proprietor of Hotel Latham, died Thursday morning at Sebree Springs. Her Birthday Violets.

By NELL SPEED.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Jessie Morgan.

Naturally the new boarder had been seated beside the landlady's favorite, Miss Imogene Goldberg. Mrs. De Lancey firmly believed that Miss Goldberg's high blond pompadour and rhinestone dog collar lent eclat to her establishment.

But, oddly enough, Jane Williams, whose hair was parted demurely in the middle and who wore her grandmother's old fashioned jacket under her plain pongee shirt waist, realized that the fine gray eyes of the new boarder were looking her way frequently and intently.

She tried to analyze her feelings with the salad, and when the coffee—such thick yet spiritless coffee—was served she decided that it was embarrassing and not a memory which stirred her whenever the gray eyes glanced her way.

Still at the conclusion of the meal she climbed three uncompromising flights of poorly carpeted stairs to her hall room and drew from her trunk her small but treasured box of photographs. There they were: the father who had died the year of her graduation, the mother who had left her alone to fight the world only twelve months before, a couple of aunts who had forgotten her in the needs and pleasures of their own children, several teachers and three girls in her class at the high school.

But there was no picture with masculine eyes that could possibly have reminded the gray eyes which had watched her gravely across the table in the dingy dining room.

"I am getting married," she said to herself as she prepared for bed. "I must turn over a new leaf. Tomorrow is my birthday. I can't afford to turn sour and old maidish at twenty-one. When I go back to the office on Monday morning I'll be more pleasant and take friends with the other girls. I've been living too much in dreams of the past."

Yet when she fell asleep it was the dream again of the past. It was her birthday, the first party in celebration of that day which she could remember with any sort of distinctness.

She was dressed in pink tulle all spattered with paper stars, and there were pink candles on the birthday cake. No one knew why an ordinarily well behaved and unmischievous child should do such a thing, but she suddenly decided to steal into the dining room and light the birthday cake before the "party came in."

The match sputtered and jumped. She tried to climb quickly for the chair, but the tiny flame was quicker still. In a flash the pretty pink tulle blazed up far above the candles, and then she forgot everything in her fright until she felt some one rolling over and over on the carpet and battering her with his coat, and that had been Willie, the cavalier of her high school.

She remembered how her mother kissed Willie and cried over him, and he had "poohpoohed" with very red eyes and shuffling feet. Their adventure was handed down as one of the traditions of the town, but when she was twelve Willie went away to live with his Grandfather Grey in the far west.

Later they had gone to Mexico, and Jane had lost track of them, although never forgetting in her own hard struggle for a livelihood.

And Willie had big gray eyes, just like those of the new boarder. She woke with a start. Now she knew why this man had attracted her curiosity. Of course the world was full of men with gray eyes. There were not colors enough to go around. Some must be duplicated, and it was very silly of her to think about Willie any more. Doubtless he was married even now to some dusky senorita whose father owned valuable silver mines.

So she turned over and fell asleep again, not to awaken until some one tapped at her door and the maid, with new respect in her bearing, entered, carrying a huge pink box.

"This here package's for you, Miss Williams," she said, but holding it as if loath to yield it to its rightful owner. "An' 'bein' as it's Sunday mornin' an' Miss De Lancey gone to church, I'll bring you a cup of coffee an' some toast up here."

For all the world loves a lover, and are not violets and lovers synonymous?

Jane sat up in bed and reached for the box.

"Never mind about the coffee. I've overslept, but I'll be down in a few minutes."

She was undoing the box with trembling fingers, and the maid, all unnoticed, lingered curiously. And came a great bunch of California violets—purple, gold, coral, tassel and all.

"For me? Impossible! And there is no card."

She turned to the lid of the box.

"The darkest corner the corner! Oh, it had been a cruel mistake. No one in the great city knew it was her birthday, and none would care if they knew."

"Now, Jane Williams," she said as sternly as was possible with a mouth full of hairpins, "right after breakfast you'll take that box back. It belongs to some other Miss Williams."

And it went back, the excited girl rushing right past the new boarder in her haste—and, yes, in her tight heart an ache that the flowers were not meant for her.

"Gabrielle" spoke a most impossible dialect, and he did his little worst to make Jane understand that there had been no mistake. But Jane firmly refused to carry the flowers back with her, and, just to convince herself that she was satisfied with what she had done, she walked half an hour in the park, returning to find the box standing on her shabby bureau. Again she opened it, and this time in engraved card met her gaze. "Mr. Frederick W. Grey," and beneath was the penciled legend: "Birthday wishes, and may I see you soon? I am waiting in the parlor now if you care to come down."

"Frederick W. Grey?" That must be the red headed assistant bookkeeper who was "Freddy" to every one but the office himself. She had never heard his last name. Of course she would see him and thank him, though she could not imagine how he had known about her birthday. Tucking the lovely flowers into her belt and giving a few deft touches to her hair, she tripped down to the parlor.

But only the new boarder, be of the fine gray eyes, was there to greet her, and he certainly stood at attention as if waiting for her.

She held the card in her hand and looked about inquiringly. "Jane—little Jane Williams—don't you know me?" demanded the new boarder.

Then suddenly something new and strange pulled at Jane's heartstrings and at memories long dead. Something new and wonderful bounded through her veins.

"Willie—little Willie," she almost sobbed. "Oh, if you'd tied the flowers with a tarlatan I would have remembered!"

It took him so long to tell her all about it—of his wandering with his eccentric old grandfather from mining camp to mining camp, from Mexico to Peru and Chile, of fortune made and lost and found again and of how the grandfather, growing more and more bitter against the recalcitrant business of his only daughter, had insisted that the grandson have his name changed by the law from that of his father's family to his mother's.

Then followed the story of how he had gone back to the old town directly his grandfather had departed on the last long journey, how no one seemed to know where she had gone, and how he had finally traced her to Mrs. De Lancey's and had come there unannounced to make sure that he would be welcome—that she had not changed—and had not found some one else.

"Oh, Willie!" she sighed contentedly from a comfortable resting place on his shoulder. "Just as if there had ever been any one else since I left the birthday candles!"

They had pre-empted the tawdry cozy corner, and by that time Mrs. De Lancey had come back from church, dodged her pink silk negligee and was staring at them accusingly from the center of the ugly red green parlor.

But when you have fine gray eyes you generally have the courage to announce your intentions, and Frederick William Grey did it so effectively that Mrs. De Lancey wiped her tears on the flowing sleeve of her pink negligee and shook hands with them both; then turning her back on the cozy corner, for once put to its legitimate use, she departed, murmuring: "Well, you never can tell what sort of girl will land a man. And her hair so plain and her face so pale too!"

When One Spends Money. One would think that money would be saved in all prosperous times when there is plenty of it about. But it is not the time when it is saved. It is then that it is spent. Everybody spends—governments, railroads, corporations, capitalists, housekeepers, housewives, collectors. People expand their wants in such times and satisfy some of them, and then is when it is most of all impossible to live on a salary of $100 a year. But after all the money has been spent a few times over and has come to be scarce and borrowing has come to be a serious matter, people have much less to spend and no expectations then everybody groans and begins to save, not only trying desperately to economize but also to live on a salary of $100 a year. But after all the money has been spent a few times over and has come to be scarce and borrowing has come to be a serious matter, people have much less to spend and no expectations then everybody groans and begins to save, not only trying desperately to economize but also to live on a salary of $100 a year.

Here is a story about which the critics are generally agreed. "Powerful," "thrilling," "intense," "dramatic," are some of the terms used to describe it. It is filled with startling climaxes and the character painting is done with artistic skill.

It will be published in this paper and every reader who begins it will eagerly for each succeeding installment.

HOPKINSVILLE GIRL

Wedded To Popular Young Traveling Man.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Armistead, of Montgomery, Ala., announce the marriage of their daughter, Minnie, to Mr. Richard Webster Kellogg, on the evening of Tuesday, September 15th, 1908.

Miss Armistead had lived here all her life until a few weeks ago, when her father moved with his family to Montgomery. She has a host of warm friends in the city and they will unite in wishing that the future may have in store much happiness for the couple. Mr. Kellogg is a young traveling man, an easterner by birth, but whose headquarters will be in Louisville, where they will reside.

Children's Day at State Fair.

Monday, September 21, the first day of the State Fair at Nashville, is going to be devoted to the children and on that day all of the youngsters will be admitted for ten cents each.

The big feature of Children's Day is going to be the parade in which only folks from 14 years old down take part. This is the only thing of the kind that has been held in the South in many years and will be carried out on a scale never before attempted. There will be a king and a queen, with knights on Shetland ponies at the head of the parade and following this will be little folks in all kinds of "get-ups." One section will be for miniature cowboys, another for mean-looking make-believe "Injuns;" another will be patterned after a circus outfit, with clowns and acrobats and bareback riders in miniature. Twenty real live babies in buggies pushed along by their nurses will be followed by a like number of 6-year-old girls with their doll buggies. This is just a slight indication of the grand occasion.

AN ATTEMPT ON CABRERA

Infernal Machine Connected With Telephone but Victim Not Badly Hurt.

FLUNG FROM CHAIR.

Five Salvadoreans Arrested On Suspicion of Being Implicated in Plot.

San Francisco, Sept. 16.—According to reports brought by officers of the steamer City Para, which arrived yesterday, an attempt was made recently upon the life of President Cabrera, of Guatemala, by means of an infernal machine.

According to the information received, the would-be assassin connected the machine with a telephone in the President's room in such a manner that it would be exploded when connection was made. Answering a call, President Cabrera was flung from his chair against the wall by a deafening explosion and almost stunned. He escaped with a few bruises.

Five Salvadoreans were arrested on suspicion of being implicated in the plot, but were relieved after their execution was ordered and placed aboard the Para which conveyed them to Acapulco. The officers believe that the American minister at Guatemala was instrumental in having their sentences commuted from death to banishment.

The Para brought news of the arrest of Frank Moore, an American, accused of being a spy and having maps of Salvador in his possession. Moore had recently come from Amapa, Honduras. He was taken ashore by officers at Acapulco.

JOHN ROBINSON'S

Big Circus Will be Here On September 21.

The Coshocton Daily Standard printed the following:

A great exhibition was the verdict of the thousands who attended the Robinson circus.

One of the largest circus crowds ever seen in Coshocton was here last Saturday, to attend the performances of the ever popular John Robinson's shows. The big tents were crowded at both the afternoon and evening performances, and the character of the truly marvelous exhibition fully merited the liberal patronage bestowed.

Of the management of the show only words of praise can be uttered. Those at its head are courteous, obliging gentlemen, whom it is a ways as well as in a social way, and no pains or expense is spared by them to add to the pleasure and comfort of their patrons, who meet with the most courteous treatment at the hands of the attaches of the show, from the higher to the lowest in position.

The popularity of the show increases with every visit, and its managers may feel assured of a royal reception at the hands of the circus-going people of Coshocton, whenever in future they may see fit to spread their big tents in this city.

LOUISVILLE CLUB

To Visit Hopkinsville On "Barnstorming Tour."

The Louisville baseball club started out Wednesday on their two weeks "barnstorming tour." They will make a circle through the eastern and central parts of the state. The furthestest town west to be visited is Hopkinsville. Large crowds are expected in all of the towns where the club will play.

"You have to SHOW ME"

The man who follows this principle knows what he's doing, knows what he's buying. His money goes farther than the man who takes things for granted. We like to do business with the "show me" man. Right here we want to extend him a cordial invitation to call at our store. We want to show him the best made buggy on Earth —the famous ANCHOR.

We'll show him why it's the best, by showing him how it is built and the material it is built of. We'll throw on the limelight of critical inspection, for the closer you examine an ANCHOR buggy the better it shows. If you're a "show me" man and want a buggy, don't fail to call on.
